Are Angelic Humans Biblically Justifiable?

Sixbert SANGWA • August 21, 2024

In recent years, there has been a growing interest in the concept of "angelic humans" within certain spiritual and New Age circles. This idea suggests that some individuals possess angelic qualities or are, in fact, angels incarnated in human form. As Christians, it is essential to examine this concept through the lens of Scripture and determine whether it aligns with biblical teaching. This article will explore the concept of angelic humans, its origins, and its compatibility with Christian doctrine, while also considering its potential connection to end-time apostasy and the sinister agenda that may be at play in these last days.

Understanding the Concept of Angelic Humans

The term "angelic humans" is not found in the Bible. It is a modern concept that has gained popularity in various spiritual movements and New Age philosophies. According to some New Age teachers, an "angelic human" is a person who has awakened to their supposed divine nature and cosmic mission. These individuals, also referred to as "earth angels" or "Homo Angelus," are believed to receive and act upon divine messages from within.

Proponents of this idea claim that humanity is undergoing a process of spiritual evolution, with an increasing number of people realizing their role in enlightening mankind. They believe that when a critical mass of "angelic humans" awakens, the world will enter a new era of peace and unity, ultimately merging with what they call "Divine Consciousness."

New Age teachings often blur the lines between humans and celestial beings. They suggest that "angelic humans" possess qualities similar to angels but with physical bodies. Some even claim these individuals have invisible, psychic wings that enable them to perform extraordinary feats. This concept is encapsulated in the quote by Pierre Teilhard de Chardin, "We are not human beings having a spiritual experience. We are spiritual beings having a human experience."

Attempts have been made to justify this concept using biblical passages. For instance, some misinterpret Psalm 8:5, "You made them little less than God and crowned them with glory and honor," as evidence for the existence of angelic humans. Additionally, New Age theology often speaks of a universal "Christ consciousness," portraying Jesus as someone who fully realized his divinity by channeling this consciousness.

However, it is crucial to evaluate such ideas in light of biblical truth and the clear teachings of Scripture, especially as we navigate the treacherous waters of end-time deception. The Bible presents a fundamentally different view of human nature and our relationship with God, emphasizing our need for salvation through Jesus Christ alone.

Biblical Teaching on Angels and Humans

To understand whether the concept of angelic humans is biblically justifiable, we must first examine what the Bible teaches about angels and humans separately.

Angels in the Bible

The Bible presents angels as created beings distinct from humans. They are spiritual beings who serve as God's messengers and agents. Hebrews 1:14 describes angels as "ministering spirits sent out to serve those who are going to inherit salvation." Angels are powerful and intelligent creatures, but they are not omniscient or omnipotent like God.

It's important to note that angels do not become humans, nor do humans become angels. In Matthew 22:30, Jesus states, "For in the resurrection they neither marry nor are given in marriage but are like angels in heaven." This verse indicates that while resurrected believers may share some similarities with angels, they remain distinct entities.

Humans in the Bible

Humans, on the other hand, are created in God's image (Genesis 1:27). We are physical beings with a spiritual nature, designed to have a relationship with God. Unlike angels, humans have the capacity for redemption through faith in Jesus Christ.
The Bible teaches that all humans are born with a sinful nature (Romans 3:23) and are in need of salvation. This is fundamentally different from the nature of angels, who were created holy but some of whom chose to rebel against God (2 Peter 2:4).

Biblical Perspective on Angelic Humans

Given the clear distinctions between angels and humans in Scripture, the concept of "angelic humans" as beings who are part angel and part human or as angels incarnated as humans is not supported by biblical teaching. Here are several reasons why this concept is problematic from a Christian perspective:

1. Distinct Creation: The Bible clearly states that God created humans and angels as separate beings with different purposes. Genesis 1:26-27 describes the creation of humans in God's image, while Colossians 1:16 mentions the creation of angels as distinct entities. There is no biblical evidence of hybridization or transformation between these two types of creatures. Hebrews 1:14 further clarifies the role of angels as "ministering spirits sent out to serve those who are going to inherit salvation," emphasizing their separate purpose from humans.
2. Salvation and Redemption: The entire narrative of Scripture revolves around God's plan of salvation for humanity through Jesus Christ. Angels are not part of this redemptive plan in the same way humans are. If some humans were actually angels, it would undermine the universality of human sin and the need for salvation. As Romans 3:23 states, "For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God," and Romans 5:12 affirms, "Therefore, just as sin entered the world through one man, and death through sin, in this way death spread to all people, because all sinned." These verses emphasize the universal nature of sin and the need for salvation for all humans.
3. "Warnings Against Angel Worship:" The Bible explicitly warns against the worship of angels. Colossians 2:18cautions, "Let no one condemn you by delighting in ascetic practices and the worship of angels, claiming access to a visionary realm. Such people are inflated by empty notions of their unspiritual mind." Additionally, Revelation 22:8-9 reinforces this warning when John attempts to worship an angel: "I, John, am the one who heard and saw these things. When I heard and saw them, I fell down to worship at the feet of the angel who had shown them to me. But he said to me, 'Don't do that! I am a fellow servant with you, your brothers the prophets, and those who keep the words of this book. Worship God!'" The concept of angelic humans could potentially lead to an unhealthy focus on angels rather than on God, contradicting the clear biblical instruction to worship God alone (Exodus 20:3).
4. Identity in Christ: For believers, our identity is rooted in Christ, not in any supposed angelic nature. Ephesians 2:10 reminds us, "For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared ahead of time for us to do." Our purpose and significance come from our relationship with God through Christ, not from any inherent angelic qualities.

The Danger of Misinterpretation and Its Connection to End-Time Apostasy

While the concept of "angelic humans" might seem appealing, it's a dangerous deception that contradicts biblical truth and misrepresents our true identity as created beings. This teaching recycles old lies, presenting a distorted view of Jesus, human nature, and our relationship with God. It's crucial to remember that Satan can disguise himself as an angel of light (2 Corinthians 11:14), making such deceptions particularly alluring.
The "angelic human" theory contradicts several key biblical truths:

- It reduces Jesus to merely an enlightened man, whereas the Bible proclaims Him as King of kings and Lord of lords (Revelation 19:16).
- It suggests we should trust our inner voice as God speaking, contradicting Scripture's warnings about the depravity of man (Isaiah 53:6; Proverbs 3:5–6).
- It promotes the false idea of human divinity and self-guided utopia, while the Bible teaches our separation from God and need for salvation (Romans 3:11).

This concept aligns with warnings in Scripture about end-time apostasy. As we approach the last days, many will depart from the faith, giving heed to deceiving spirits and doctrines of demons (1 Timothy 4:1). The "angelic humans" idea is part of this great deception, drawing people away from the true gospel towards a false spirituality that exalts human nature and blurs the lines between the created and the Creator.
Instead of seeking to become "angelic," we should focus on our true identity in Christ, recognizing our need for salvation and embracing the eternal life offered through faith in Jesus (John 17:2). This truth stands in stark contrast to the deceptive teachings that elevate human beings to a false divine status.

The Sinister Agenda Behind the Concept

It's crucial to consider that the promotion of concepts like angelic humans may be part of a broader, sinister agenda aimed at undermining biblical truth and preparing the way for the Antichrist. As we see in 2 Thessalonians 2:3-4, the coming of the lawless one will be accompanied by a great falling away from the faith. The idea of humans possessing angelic qualities or being incarnated angels could be a steppingstone towards the ultimate deception where the Antichrist will exalt himself above all that is called God.

This concept also aligns with the New Age movement's emphasis on human potential and self-deification, which stands in direct opposition to the biblical teaching of human sinfulness and the need for a Savior. By promoting the idea that some humans are inherently more spiritual or "angelic," it creates a false hierarchy among humanity and potentially opens the door for the worship of created beings rather than the Creator.

Embracing Our True Identity in Christ

Instead of seeking identity in concepts like "angelic humans," Christians are called to find their true identity in Christ. As believers, we are adopted children of God (Ephesians 1:5), co-heirs with Christ (Romans 8:17), and members of God's household (Ephesians 2:19). These truths are far more profound and significant than any claim to angelic status.
In light of the end-time apostasy and the increasing spiritual deception in the world, it's more important than ever for believers to ground themselves in the truth of God's Word. We must be vigilant against teachings that deviate from Scripture, no matter how appealing or seemingly spiritual they may be.

Conclusion

In conclusion, the concept of "angelic humans" is not only biblically unjustifiable but also represents a dangerous deception that aligns with end-time apostasy. This belief system contradicts clear biblical teachings about the nature of angels and humans, potentially leading to spiritual deception and misplaced focus. As Christians, we must remain vigilant against such teachings that deviate from Scripture and instead ground our identity and purpose in God's Word.

The rise of such deceptive doctrines is a clear sign that we are approaching the end times. As Jesus warned in Matthew 24:24, "For false messiahs and false prophets will arise and perform great signs and wonders to deceive, if possible, even the elect." Those who embrace the idea of being "angelic humans" are rejecting the Word of God in favor of their own feelings and imaginations, opening themselves up to demonic influence and satanic lies.

Satan, who "masquerades as an angel of light" (2 Corinthians 11:14), seeks to deceive humanity by promoting the false idea that we can achieve divinity or angelic status through our own efforts. This deception aligns with the broader end-time scenario. As believers, we are called to stand firm in our faith, holding fast to the truth of God's Word. We must resist the allure of false spiritual enlightenment and instead focus on growing in Christ-likeness, cultivating the fruit of the Spirit (Galatians 5:22-23), and fulfilling our calling as ambassadors for Christ (2 Corinthians 5:20). Our hope is not in becoming angelic beings or achieving divinity, but in the promised return of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Let us remain steadfast in our faith, discerning and wise, recognizing the deceptions of the enemy and standing firm against the tide of false teachings that seek to lead us astray. As we navigate these challenging times, may we be found among those who walk the narrow path that leads to eternal life, always remembering that our ultimate victory is assured in Christ. For we know Satan's end: "The devil, who deceived them, was thrown into the lake of burning sulfur" (Revelation 20:10). Therefore, let us encourage one another and remain vigilant, eagerly awaiting the glorious return of our Savior.
